LIFETIME ACHIEVEMENT

GEORGINA THEODORA WOOD

Her Ladyship Georgina Theodora Wood is the former Chief Justice of the Republic of Ghana. She is the first woman in Ghana to be elevated to this high office as a result of her appointment in June of 2007.

In Ghana, the Chief Justice position is constitutionally the fourth position after the President, Vice President, and the Speaker of Parliament. She has had a distinguished career on the Bench spanning over thirty-five years. Justice Georgina Wood was educated at the University of Ghana, Legon and the Ghana School of Law and served for three years in the Police Service as a Public Prosecutor. She was appointed to the Bench as a Magistrate of the District Court in 1973 and rose through the hierarchy of the court system culminating in her appointment to the highest judicial office in Ghana.

Wood's hard work, integrity, professionalism, and dedication to justice and the judicial system led to her rise through the ranks of the judicial system. In 1991, she was elevated to the Court of Appeal and during her tenure, she served as the President of the Court between 2000 and 2002 since she was the most senior member of the Court at the time. Subsequently, she was elevated to the Supreme Court in November 2002. In June 2007, she was appointed by His Excellency J. A. Kufuor (former president of the Republic of Ghana) as Chief Justice after a successful vetting and approval by consensus by the parliament of Ghana.

She is the only Chief Justice who had the opportunity of swearing-in four presidents under the country's 4th Republican Constitution. Justice Wood is recognized as the longest-serving Chief Justice with her tenure spanning a decade, from 2007 to 2017. This period was marked by remarkable leadership and outstanding reforms in the judicial system of Ghana.
